Medical Properties and Uses.

It is the most sure and speedy cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatis 12 Pains of all kinds that was ever introduced in the Materia Medica. THE UNK WARD and REMEDY, as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a

There are a few remedies known to the Medical Profession which will remove the Rheumatic Poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the sys-tem of the already enfectled Rhoumstie pa-tient, that their use has to be abandoned be-fore specific effects are obtainable, hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence heretofore incurable disease. The Daily Standard. Monday, December 11, 1871. Another Political Dinner.

The retirement of the Hon. Mr. Dunkin induced the Cabinet to call the Hon J. H. Pope of Sherbrooke, Quebec, to ture. For "divers and sundry reasons" a disper was provided at Sherbrooke by about two hundred gentlemen living in the Finance Minister. In alluding to and about that country town. Several the Washington Treaty, he said that: Ministers were present, as well as Members of Parliament, and as a matter of Dominion would be prepared to come down with their policy and be united apon it found the political speeches. Now as we want to get our readers posted in some we want to get our readers posted in some degree on Canadian politics, we propose to give them a summary of what was said—at least what was of interest. Of course every speaker was cheered. Who ever heard of a dinner where there was not good cheer as well as good cheers.

Taking that to be all right, we can't do better than a give a few averages from the course which they were at the moment to take that course which they thought the interests of Canada might require them.

A. BERGE ASSORTMENT OF

Plain and Fancy Candies,

Chrystalised Bon Bons for Taking that to be all right, we can't do better than give a few extracts from the speeched. The only points in the Hou.

Mr. Pope's speech, deserving on our part of special notice, are as follows: Speaking as the representative in the Cabinet of the English is Qualter has been well the Ministers with the mean well the Ministers with the Ministers with the mean well the Ministers with the Ministers with the mean well the Ministers with the Ministers with the mean well the Ministers with the mean well the Ministers with the mean well the me of the English in Ouebec, he said:

"They were in an English-speaking mino-rity in Quebec, and it was eminently desirable they should be represented in the Cabinet by one where past record evidenced his determi-nation to have fair consideration for their wants, whilst cultivating most friendly rela-tions with his fellow-subjects of French-Canadian origin."

Then he touched as follows on the railway:

"He believed that offers were being made at this moment to have the railway built on the principles adopted in the States, by means of land grants in addition to a small subsidy of money; and he believed the project would be carried out. (Loud cheers.)

Passing from the railway, he said:

"The policy of the Government was improvement. The great desire of the Government was to develop all the resources of the country, and to that end their whole energy would be developed. (Oneers.)"

In Quebec, no matter what politicians may say, there is a strong feeling between French and English, Catholic and Protestant. So Mr. Pope thus talked about the matter in referring to Sir G.

" the leading politician in Lower Canada. He felt that he had a man working with him who was quite incapable of seeing injustice done to any one. He felt that working alongside of his honorable friend, Sir George E. Cartier, he should always find an earnest desire to do ustice to all creeds and races in Lower Canada, and that it would be in his power to come before them at any time, and state that he had been supported in the measures be considered most desirable, and that under all the difficulties arising from a mixed popula-tion, full and ample justice had been done to all.! (Cheers.) He must tell them be did not very humble member of it, as alone a representative of the English speaking population but he proposed to enter it as a humble re presentative of the whole of the people of Lower Canada, and he appealed to those present as people of English origin, and he asked all the people of Lower Canada to join with him in doing away with all national and sectional jealousies and conflicts of interests, and then they would march on a broad road apart from nationality and apart from creed, resting assured that their interests would be protected, and confident that no injustic would be done to any man. (Cheers.) Emigration comes under Mr. Pope's department. So he said:

"Ther might rest assured that the Province which offered the most liberal inducements to immigrants would secure the largest measure of immigration. We were not, however, entirely dependent on the Local Government. We had a large field at the Northwest, we had the Province of Manitoba, we had the valleys of the Saskatchewan and the Assinibolie, and we had British Columbia. We had in that territory a country able to support million of people and we had millions of acres to bring under cultivation. The greatest efforts would be made to induce immigration

Sir Geo. E. Cartier then followed, and after telling what he had done for Questie, touched on creed and nationality

He stated that as fer as he was concerned, gard to creed and nationality were as safe in his winds as the interests of his French counarysen (cheers.) He had written and spoken this that the creed and nationality of every end was a question of individuality.

Passing to the census, he said :

"It would be seen that the census had been taken with asse and diligence, and in connection with an important question. It was the first time to the history of Canada that a polifical question was connected with the taking of the census. The representation was to be re-adjusted in accordance with that cenans, and it had therefore been necessary to take it with great care, and it was now completed. He heard some gentlemen present say that it was time. Some persons might like to have had it sooner, but what he had said shewed how necessary it was that it should be done prudently, cautiously and thoroughly, and the result would show that it was the only thorough census which had ever been taken in any part of the Do-minion. (Hear, hear.)"

"The Ministry had discharged their duty honestly. His hearers might consult the blue-books with respect to taxation and ex-penditure, and they would find that there was no country on earth which was more economically governed than the Dominion of Canada, (cheers,) and there was no country on earth where so much was done for publisimprovement. (Obecrs.) Sir Prancis Hincks followed, and said comething interesting, as follows : "If might be expected from the position he held in the Ministry he should make some slight reference to the finances of the counslight reference to the finances of the country. That was not a party question, and he was cure every one present, and none more so than their distinguished member Sir Alexander Galt, the late Finance Minister, would be gratified with the statement he was about to make, namely, that in no previous year had there been so large a revenue as during the year just closed. (Cheers.) And when he stated that the revenue had exceeded nineteen millions of dollars, he stated a fast which he was our would give general satisfaction. It was sure would give general satisfaction. It was lives. debt, but it was certainly not a debt beyond our resources and means, and it should be re-membered the debt had been contracted mainly for great public improvements. (Cheers.) And that led him to another subject upon which there would be very great unanimity in that gathering. During the requests whole of his public life he had been a strong and continuous advocate of public improve-ments. (Cheers.) He believed in public improvements. But there was a very wide carry on wars, where money was wasted, where human life was wasted, and where a large expenditure, which was not reproducexpenditure on public improvements. The former was not the case as regarded the debt of the Lominion; rather, it had been cou-tracted for great public improvements, all of which added to the revenues and general prosperity of the country."

The fact of raising $19,000,000 revenue in 1871, is a feather in the cap of

"He knew well the Ministers with whon he was to be allied, and knew too—to adopt the larguage of Mr. Pope—be was joining a Government of progress, for to no other Gov-ernment would he have given his adhesion.

Cheers.) There were several other interesting speeches; but we have given the extracts of most interest to our readers.

STRANGE CASE OF HYDROPHOBIA. - The New York Herald of Nov. 19th publishes: Mr. Frederick W. Beetson, late of No. 194 Waverr Place, owned a favorite dog, and about three weeks ago, while playing with him the brute sicked his (deceased's) lips. The same night the dag exhibited symptoms of being rabid and continuing to grow worse, was killed wish poison three days subsequently. Two weeks ago Mr. Beetson complained of great pain in his head, had great horror of water showed to an unusual degree and was seized with spasms on drinting. Dr. Hogan of Bleecker street was called to see Mr. Beetson a week ago, and, learning a history of the case, administered the proper antidotes, without success, as death ensued on Friday. The just tendered a verdict in accordance with the foregoing facts. Deceased was forty one years of age and a native of England.

THE Fink .- Many persons visited the scene of the late fire, yesterday. The four gain chimnies stand looking down upon the smiling city, like sentinels left to guard, fearing lest other like catastrophes should be atthe fire was the act of some evil disposed wretch; there are some, however, who take this view of the matter-that burning embers from the fire used in the fire place, on the day of the conflagration, fell down between the flooring and the fire place to the basement, igniting shavings or whatever else might burn, -and this would account for the flames being noticed to first break out under neath the building.
